Welcome to my South Downs Pub Guide...

We all love a pub. They provide a warm welcome and a safe place to enjoy company, a drink and often delicious food. Many are cherished and characterful buildings, used for hospitality over centuries. Others are in beautiful or scenic surroundings or at the heart of villages and towns. All provide a vital focal point for our communities and play host to keeping alive our traditions.

The Covid years of 2020 and 2021 have been difficult for all, but perhaps especially for our local pubs. As we make our way back to the booths, benches, beer gardens and barstools of these local institutions, this guide aims to give our wonderful South Downs pubs a practical boost by reminding us of old favourites and inspiring us to try some new favourites too.

In the following pages we showcase many excellent establishments. I hope that by sharing useful information on their characteristics, features and facilities you will be enticed to visit these valued businesses. That was my aim in producing this guide and they deserve our support.

Even more information - as well as further details on all of the pubs in this booklet - on the related South Downs Pubs Guide website - www.southdownspubs.com.

Thank you for taking the time to browse the South Downs Pubs Guide - cheers!

The Norfolk Arms

Steyning

The Norfolk Arms is a traditional pub, full of locals who know each other. A hub of conversations in the small Tudor saloon bar. The Victorian public bar hosts many different societies from The British Legion to fun Poker Evenings. A local men's choir give us a few songs on a week night. If newcomers move into the town, usually once they have visited The Norfolk they make it their local.

No food available.
A good selection of real ales at a reasonable price, even one known as 'the cheap', keeps our customers happy.

- ✓ Good selection of real ales
- ✓ Real fire in the winter
- ✓ Very large beer garden
- ✓ Lovely atmosphere
- ✓ Cheeky banter with Pam the landlady

The Horse Guards Inn

Tillington

Settled in the sleepy village of Tillington, The Horse Guards Inn is a 350 year-old pub in The South Downs National Park. The pub is relaxed, friendly and informal with wooden tables and chairs, oak beams and stripped floorboards. In winter you can forget about outside and warm yourself next to one of the many log burners or on sunnier days, enjoy the hidden garden with lunch at shaded tables on benches covered with sheepskins.

Our menu is small and seasonal. All our food is cooked to order and the menu changes every day to fit in what we can source from local suppliers, reared in our field, dug out of our vegetable patch or foraged from the wild hedgerows or seashores nearby.

The Horse Guards Inn is open for lunch and dinner Wednesday to Saturday and lunch on Sundays.
